Acceptance of Idea Contest Participation Rules

Applying for the contest, the participant accepts the participation rules. In case of applications by a multitude of participants who act as a consortium, the acceptance of participation rules by the person in charge of the application shall apply to all consortium participants.

The following rules shall be established to take part in the contest:

1. Participation in the contest does not give the right to acquire a grant.
2. Right for the grant allocation among consortium participants as well as refusal to provide or allocate the grant in justified cases shall be retained solely with the contest organizer.
3. In case of successful selection, the winner should hand over to contest organizer the author's rights for project idea.
4. Besides the mandatory application documents, the contest organizer and its authorized persons are entitled to request from participant the additional information and documents for the most complete assessment of its application.
5. In case of successful application selection, the winner concludes with organizer an agreement on implementation of the project idea.
6. If the contest winner refuses to conclude the project implementation agreement with contest organizers, then the contest organizer is entitled to transfer the project implementation to the other person without a prior consent of contest winner.
7. After an agreement between the contest winner and organizer is concluded the grant will be paid to contest winner in separate parts (instalments) and exclusively in the form of bank transfer. The grant amount and payment details will be settled by agreement.
8. The grantee is obliged to, in the best possible way, use the received grant to implement the project idea as well as to keep records of all expenditures related to the received funds.
9. From the moment the project implementation started until the period established by agreement the project organizer and its authorized persons are entitled to, at any time, demand from the grantee all required information on how the grant was used as well as to personally familiarize with implementation of the project being sponsored.
